AT THE OUTSET

We, the staff, invite you to view this book as a television screen on which has been played, this past year, innumerable activities, club meetings, music contests, athletic victories—and some losses—voluminous tests, new classmates, exciting adventures, untried experiences, and for us who are seniors, our last look from the “inside of high school life”. We invite you to turn a page, instead of a knob, to relive the memories of a year gone by.

Nineteen hundred and thirty-eight was the year, the year the ambitious class of '51 started up the ladder of higher learning—kindergarten. This class learned easily, so well, in fact, that we almost ran out of teachers in the first grade. At least, we thought that was the reason we had so many...

Mrs. Vreeland looks on (way back there) and Marie Smith goes right on eating as Harriett Brown, Phyllis Stoelting, Sharon Shadle, Glenda Penniman, Mary Montag, and Margaret Tapley line up at the lunch room window for their trays.

It must be good; at least it's funny to Pat Goodwin, Carol Beach, LaVonne Dettmann, and Bonnie McDonald who sit facing Margaret Tapley and Barbara Brown.

Lunch Room

280 lunches a day ... new equipment ... class "A" menus ... milk, vegetables, fruit, protein, butter ... lines of hungry kids ... busy cooks ... Miss Ziegler's planning and buying ... all these things are part of school lunch.

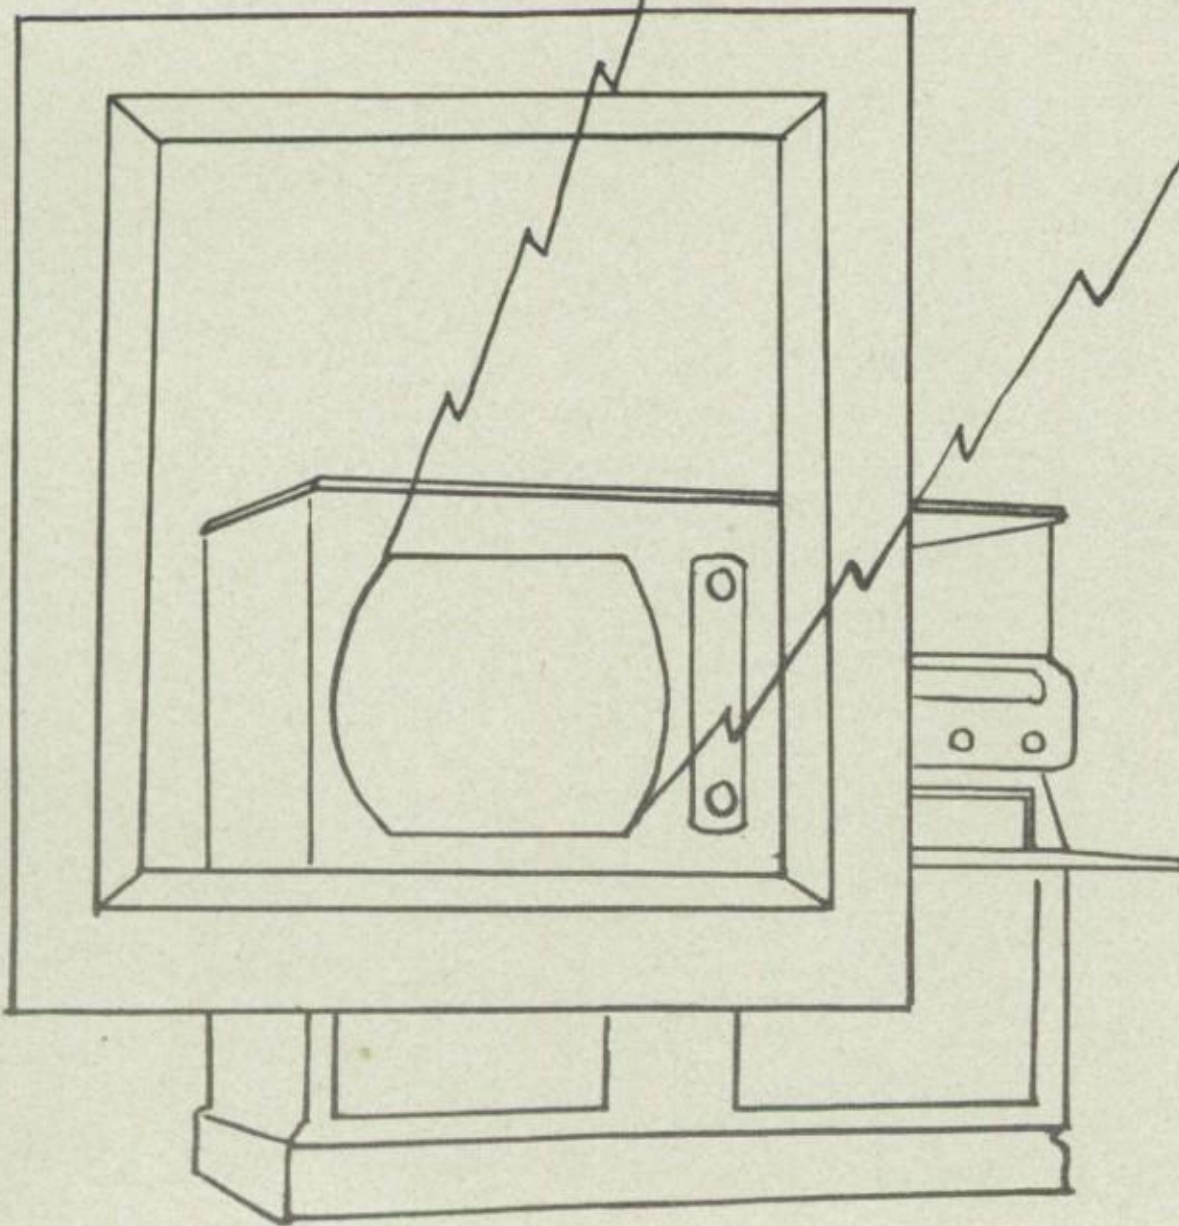

And what would school lunch be without our good cooks, Mrs. Paul, Mrs. Nichols, Mrs. Vreeland (chief chef), Mrs. White, and Mrs. Stoelting?

When the trays are clean, Phyllis Bogue doesn't have so much to do—and Neoma Ritter is really obliging.

School Board

Even in the days of television, school would not be school without the teachers. And what would the teachers do without the school board? Of course, the board worries about the building and remodeling while the teachers worry about those who are a little too slow and those who are a little too smart. But all in all these pedagogues are a pretty good lot.

How It Happened

1. Busy little beavers putting out our Sentinel.
2. Bob and Boyd caught in the act of robbing the coke machine!
3. "Baby, it's cold outside," but not at a Teepee Club dance.
4. Jim Hoover finds a career as a future glass-blower.
5. Don's midget taxi—little enough for the sidewalk but big enough for him.
6. Doug is one of our industrious work-experience guys.
7. Mr. Rummells throwing himself out of joint to get John and Marcene to "respond."
8. Jo Ann, Wanda, and Dorothy in a gay mood at the F. H. A. convention.
9. Bonnie and Virginia advertising their favorite organization, F. H. A.
10. Three cheers for the F. F. A. basketball team.
11. The junior life-savers helping each other out of the briny deep!

Looking back—over the highlights of the season we recall the breaking of the conference scoring record, the thrilling upset of Carroll, the overnight trip to Sioux City, and the close games with some of the highly-rated teams in this part of the state. Closing the season with a none too successful record of six wins and fourteen losses, these boys, nevertheless, gave their supporters many thrilling moments. The reserves made a fine showing this year by gaining for themselves an admirable record and show promises of attaining greater heights in basketball for S.C.H.S.

Track

The 1950 track team literally ran away (and we do mean "ran") with the first place honors at the Mid-West Conference track meet at Harlan. They made equally excelling performances at other meets they attended (the "Cherokee Relays", and their own "Good Indian" and "Sac Relays" meets). No matter what the competition, they went home with their share of ribbons and medals.

Wayt receives baton from Bartlett.

The boys who always got to run the last event of the meet—the mile relay team, John, Don, Mark, and Jerry.

Junior High Sports

These future athletes, coached by Darrell Hanshaw, are gaining valuable experience through junior high athletics. And although their record may not be outstanding, it's a good bet that they'll be providing Sac fans with plenty of thrills in the coming years. They worked hard and deserve a lot of credit.

Among the best swimmers in the school are those who learn the fundamentals of lifesaving. Each year three are chosen to go to aquatics school. Not to be forgotten in the athletics program are the junior high girls who joined Play For Fun to participate in athletics similar to those of senior high G. A. A. They exchange invitations with other surrounding schools for "Play Days" when they swim, hike, and play games.

The Girls' Athletic Association has almost doubled in size this year. Could it be the all-school square dance or the hayride—with dates, that is—that caused this? Every other Monday night they meet to discuss "business". Most of the time, however, is spent playing basketball and jumping on the trampoline.

Dolphin Club

Ranking among the biggest shows of the school year was the Dolphin performance. Combining rhythmic swimming with modern melodies, this club presented the thoroughly enjoyable "Night and Day" Dolphin Show.

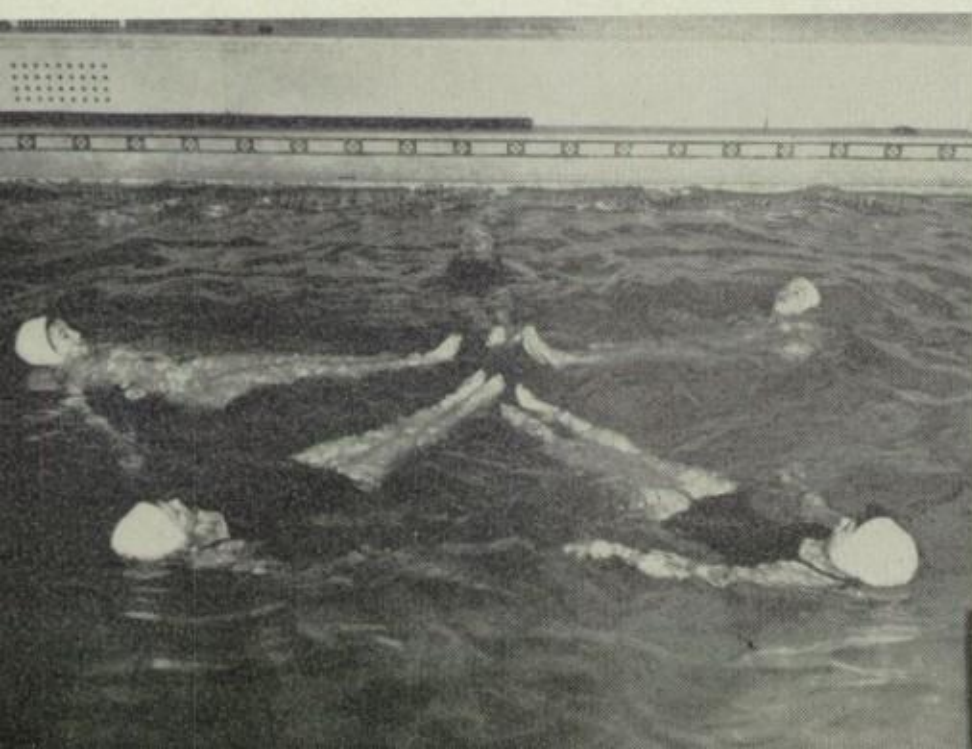

All lined up to practice some formations are Donna and Carol, Bonnie and Jackie, Barbara and Judy.

Forming a star as they practice for the Big Show are Mary S., Bonnie R., Mary M., Marjorie, and Ann.

Some of these mermaids need a rest as Marjorie, Ann, Mary S., Bonnie, and Barbara relax on the diving board, but Judy B., Mary M., Donna, Jackie, and Carol seem to want more company in the pool.

Looking wet, enthusiastic, and so chic in their white hats are these rows of future stars of the Dolphin show (first row) Mary M., Mary S., Jackie, Carol, and Marjorie, (second row) Barbara, Marjorie E., Judy, Donna and Ann.

SENIOR HIGH

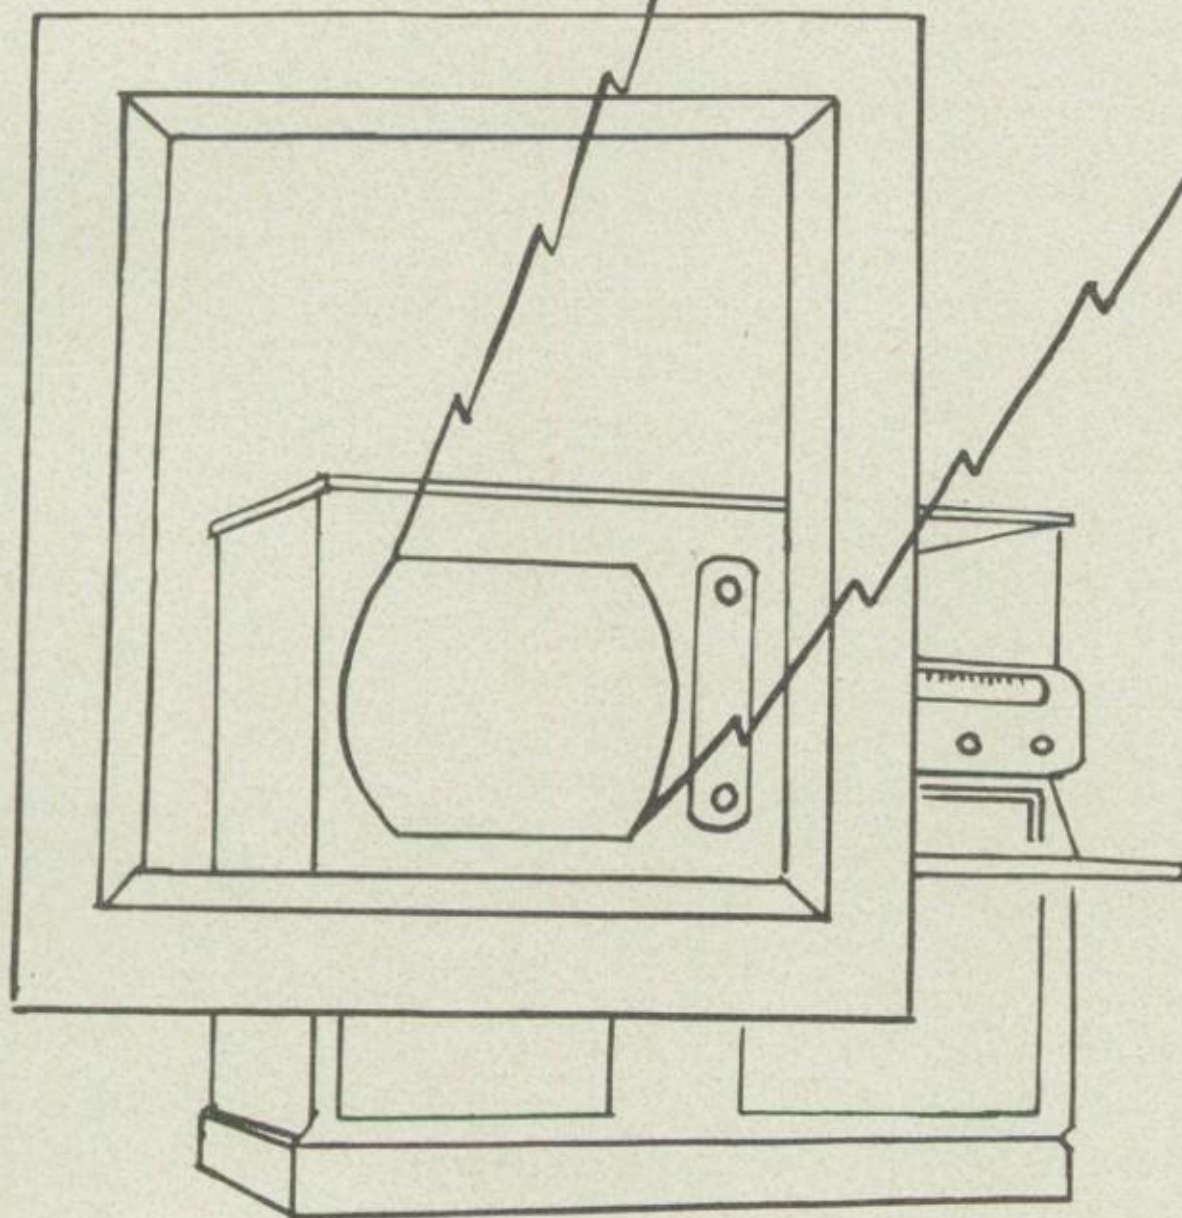

Janet Stanzel, Mary Schwitzer, Gretchen Nieworth, Jackie Pellersels, Ann Shull. They had the ambition, pep, and looks to lead the crowd in cheering the team on. (Ah! Those crazy, crazy pep stunts they invented.)

Cheerleaders

JUNIOR HIGH

Nancy Miller, Jane Shull, Kaye Arthaud, Mary Schultz, Peggy Goodwin, Carol Wiley, Marlow Burrows. These kids are getting experience to become cheerleaders in future years.

Music

"Sweet Anne Page"

"And now, Anne, you've had your great triumph. I want my triumph too," says Wilton (John) to sweet Anne (Marcene).

Sweet Anne Page is an orphan maid in a large summer boarding house run by the domineering Mrs. Tutwiller and her spoiled daughter, Jane. When a large summer opera company opens nearby, the cast becomes the guests at the Tutwillers. Wilton O'Neal, the handsome leading man, is attracted to Anne, leaving Patricia Varon, the haughty leading lady, in a fury. Having heard Anne's lovely voice while she worked, Zaza, an elderly actress who was once a star, has coached her secretly in the leading role so that when the enraged Patricia leaves for New York because she has lost Wilton, Anne is granted her big chance.

"Ah, a man and good looking too!" exclaims Betty (Betty T.) as she and Peggy (Pauline) meet handsome Paul (Jerry).

"No one can sing that song as I can," comments the prima donna, Patricia, (Wanda) to Director Tyler (Mark) and her leading man, Wilton (John).

Len sings to Leona, "You grew up for me," in his mellow tenor voice.

Everyone has his sweetheart and is dancing and singing in the finale of "Sweet Anne Page."

"I've got a replacement," exclaims Zaza (Carlene) to the awe-struck Sharon (Darrel) and Director Tyler (Mark).

Vesper Choir

Boys' Glee Club

One of the most impressive music contributions is the Vesper Choir services at Christmas time. This year the Boys' Glee Club lent harmony to the program with "Beautiful Savior" and "Birthday of a King."

Mixed Chorus Girls' Glee Club

When the last row of seats in the auditorium is stacked high with books, the Mixed Chorus or Girls' Glee Club is practicing for the big contest. There, under the direction of Miss Oppedahl, these groups prepare for the judges. Good breathing, sustained tones, correct posture, careful diction are essentials to good singing. And the ratings of the judges proved they practiced not in vain.

All lined up, pretty as a picture. And that's the way they looked to the judges too. Of course, the soloists braved the ordeal alone, but the twelve madrigal singers bolstered one another's spirits. Together or alone, they rated with the best.

Swing Band

Marjorie Evans, Don Rosenkrans, Don Bancroft, Craig Knudson, Sheldon Lloyd, Joyce Jarnagin, Gretchen Niewerth.

Variety to the Teepee Club dances was the synonym for our smooth Swing Band; the spirited marches and rhythmic diddies which added enthusiasm and color to the games was the by-word of the loyal Pep Band.

Band

Roy Holtz
Director

Intricate paths of marching routines were made much easier for the rest of the band by the pretty twirlers, Peggy Thiessen, Della Love, Margaret Clausen, Wanda Russell, Bonnie Rogers, Marilys Schoneboom, and Pat Hibbs.

Although these "musicians" arise in the middle of the night to grope their way to the school, they still end up producing fine music. These "maestros" play everything from overtures to popular tunes, but they really hit their strides on the marches. Their successful programs are largely due to the direction of Roy Holtz, who keeps their sleepy eyes on the notes.

As We Saw It

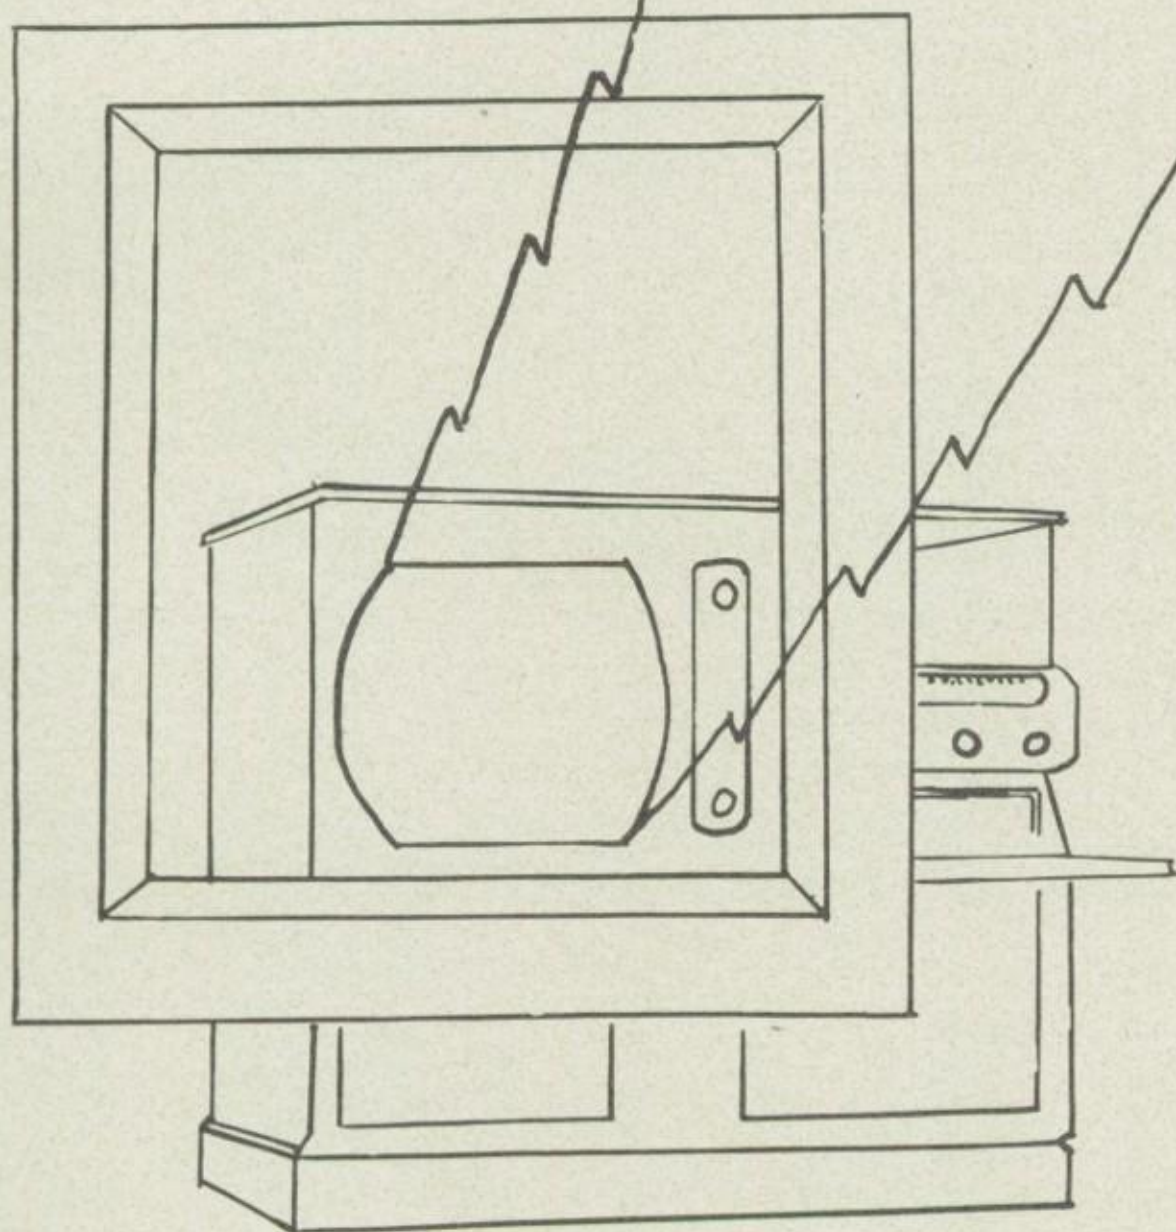

1. Looking studious, aren't they?
2. No, there wasn't a fire—just remodeling the joint. (Gym, that is.)
3. Ann with a puzzled look. Did they try to lock you out?
4. The percussion part of band, Janice, on her way to school.
5. Jerry and Jack looking their handsomest.
6. Are we twenty points ahead or twenty points behind?—That is the question.
7. A pep meeting, but where's the PEP!
8. 99 and 44/100% something or other—they float!
9. The F. F. A. Sweetheart, Shirley, flanked by her attendants, Bonnie and Pauline. Not bad, huh?

10. The American history class paying their usual "close attention"!
11. And who might these fair damsels be?—None other than Peg and Mary.
12. Betty and Mr. Rummells dancing at the Teepee.—So what if the music had stopped.
13. Dick and Jo Ann in their young and innocent years.

Activities

The officers of the student council as they usually are, loafing on the job: Pat Hibbs, vice-president; Barbara Lewis, secretary; Jack Irwin, treasurer; Jim Irwin, president.

Student Council

From tags to floats, from queens to speakers, the student council carries out a variety of activities. In the fall their biggest project is planning and supervising Homecoming. They see that the queen is elected, that her float is built, that the skits are judged, and that the parade down town is assembled. These representatives, chosen by classes and from their varied home-rooms, are responsible for our assembly programs and the introduction of Career Day speakers. They even began working on a new seating arrangement in the auditorium. But the project that made them "most famous" was their decision to keep our locker doors closed—and they meant it!

Margaret and Joyce, as a committee of two, decide this locker doesn't get Joyce's warning tag to keep locker doors closed. With sadistic smiles they watch the books fall!

The student council members ponder over a new problem.

On the basis of Scholarship, Leadership, Character, and Service, these members are elected by the faculty once a year. The Seventh, Eighth, and Ninth graders proved that they, too, can sing, act, and play at their annual Junior High night. All grown up with new dresses, first nylons, and slick hair they perform for a packed house, their schoolmates.

Mr. Thorpe (Delos) warned his wife, (Jo), "Don't call me Oglevie."

The dominating Mrs. Thorpe (Jo) describes her husband (Delos) to Mr. Wilson (Bill R.) when she says, "A mouse will completely unnerve him."

Wringing his hands, Hank (Larry) eagerly asked Stenographer Evelyn (Nancy), "Does she sound like she's got money?" Bill (Bill R.) and Helen (Patty) anxiously anticipate the answer.

From the time Gene Olson, president of the Ninth grade, welcomed all the guests, through the five songs played by the 32 member band, through the youthful selections sung by each of the classes—especially "I Saw Sammy"—to the humorous one act plays, the audience was thoroughly entertained. This year, for the first time, the parents were even fed coffee and doughnuts by the Junior High faculty.

Mr. Hanna (Joe) demands an explanation from Bobby (Jane) as he points an accusing finger at Harold (Bill K.) and asked, "Who is this?"

"You wouldn't dare blackmail me," shouts frightened sister Margie (Cynthia) at little sister Bobby (Jane).

"Harold is such a nice boy," remembers Mrs. Hanna (Roberta) while Harold (Bill K.) secretly enjoys his compliment.

Daniel (John B.) explains to Sylvia (Marilyn) that "when one prospects, one ... finds nuggets in one's hands—if one's lucky, of course."

"I'll Leave It To You"

As Mrs. Crombie (Neoma) and Faith (Gretchen) listen in, Griggs (Craig) reminds Mrs. Dermott (Barbara) that her knitting stitches ended with "Forty-seven, Madam."

Noel Coward's lively comedy about Uncle Dan's millions and his plan to encourage each of his idle nieces and nephews "to make good" gave the audience an evening of entertainment and fun.

Librarians

"Remember, this is an overnight book, due at 9:00 tomorrow morning." With this familiar warning to forgetful book borrowers, the librarians put away their books for another day. Members of this organization can be seen on duty before and after school and during each period checking books in and out.

Imagine a librarian that likes to read! President Elsie and Vice-president Kaye have their books, but Secretary-treasurer Neoma and Reporter Bonnie don't seem to be too interested.

Work Experience

Do all W. E. people work so hard, Mr. Paul?

When it comes to planning for the future, these are the groups that do it. With Mr. Hoffman's guidance and supervision, seniors in work experience hold jobs downtown, get high school credit for their work, and learn what the business world is really like. Those in the Commercial Club are planning for their futures as students who have had at least credits in typing or shorthand. A salute to the business leaders of tomorrow!

Are the officers of C. C. turning out money on the ditto?

Commercial Club

Have you seen those red jackets with the fancy emblems on them? Those are F.H.A. jackets and their wearers are proud members of Sac's largest organization, the Future Homemakers of America. They've had a busy year entertaining the high school at the first square dance in the fall (oh how cold it was!), planning their formal dance (the only visa versa dance on the calendar), formally installing their officers (and feeding their mas and teachers), clothing two families in Greece (with the high school's help), attending the state convention in Des Moines (and missed school!), and installing a new F.H.A. Chapter at Carroll. And just to prove how enthusiastic these members are, twenty began work on the Junior Homemaker Degree, six on the Chapter Degree. Bonnie Rehder and Jo Ann Philips worked for State Homemaker Degree. Is it any wonder such an organization grew and Grew and GREW?

The F.H.A. Chapter looks efficient and cheerful: Treasurer Alta, Vice-President Jo Ann, Reporter Barb, President Dorothy, Parliamentarian Jean, Music Chairman Mary, Secretary Shirley, and Public Relations Chairman Judy.

While one group looks at the F.H.A. magazine, TEEN TIMES, another section shows off the program booklets for this past year, made fancy with the F.H.A. flower, the red rose. On the first page, the officers illustrate their positions for the installation service. Three groups, three interests, and ninety girls plan for the future.

F.F.A.

Even without their official jackets, these F.F.A. officers look capable: Secretary Corsaut, Reporter Harman, Vice-President Mooney, Treasurer McDonald, President Gosch, and Sentinel Beach.

Any of the 41 members of the Future Farmers of America will gladly tell about their year's program. They might brag about the 34 acres of soybeans they raised and sold, or the concessions they sold at the county fair and the football games. They might tell about the Sac County F.F.A. basketball conference they organized last year or the two swimming parties they've had. They could tell about the convention six of their representatives attended in Kansas City or the judging teams they've had judging all classes of livestock. They'll remember to tell about the vacation trip nine of the members went on through the Missouri Ozarks to Churchill Downs in Kentucky, to the Indianapolis Races and through seven states in all. And which one could ignore the dates they took on their hayride, or the wienie roast, or their Harvest Ball with the F.F.A. Sweetheart, Shirley Patterson? But one thing is sure; not one would forget to tell that this Sac City Chapter has won in contests more Gold Awards than any chapter has ever won in one year, that this is the top F.F.A. Chapter in the State!

Using the best F.F.A. methods, Mister Olson makes the barn clean enough for a cat.

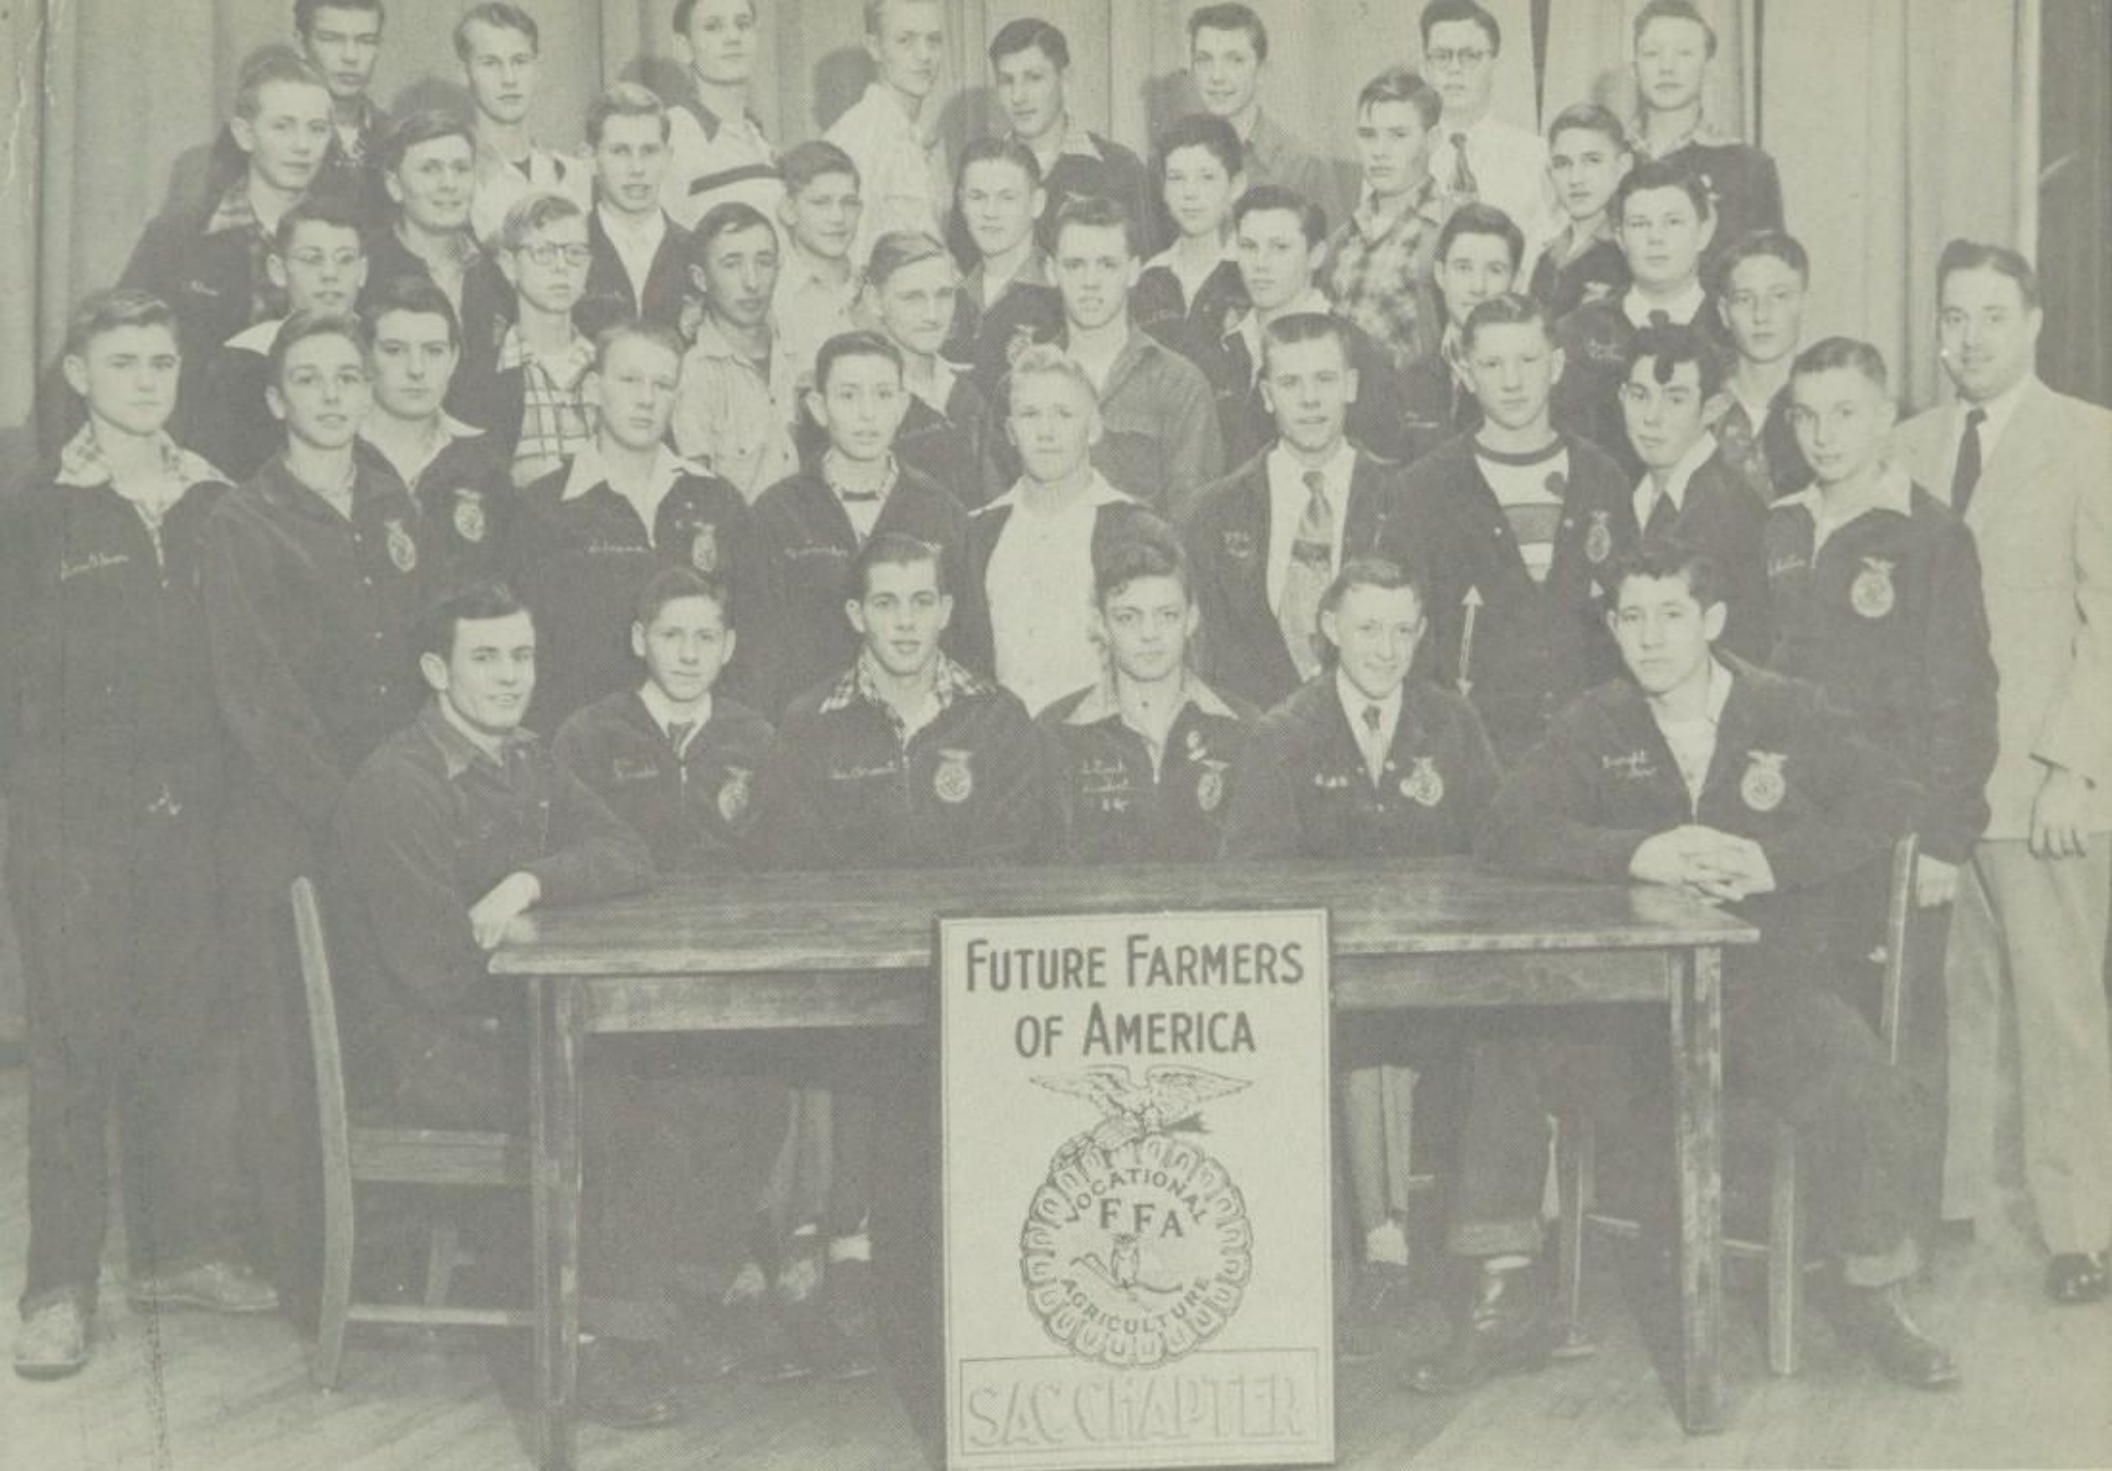

On the junior-senior field trip to Johnson's farm, it looks as if everyone had a good rest.

President Lauterbach looks so efficient.

teepee

Planned and executed by their own officers, the Teepee Club is the official high school Hangout after football and basketball games, and for celebration of all special events.

Boyd doesn't seem to like the diet of dry buns, napkins, and records.

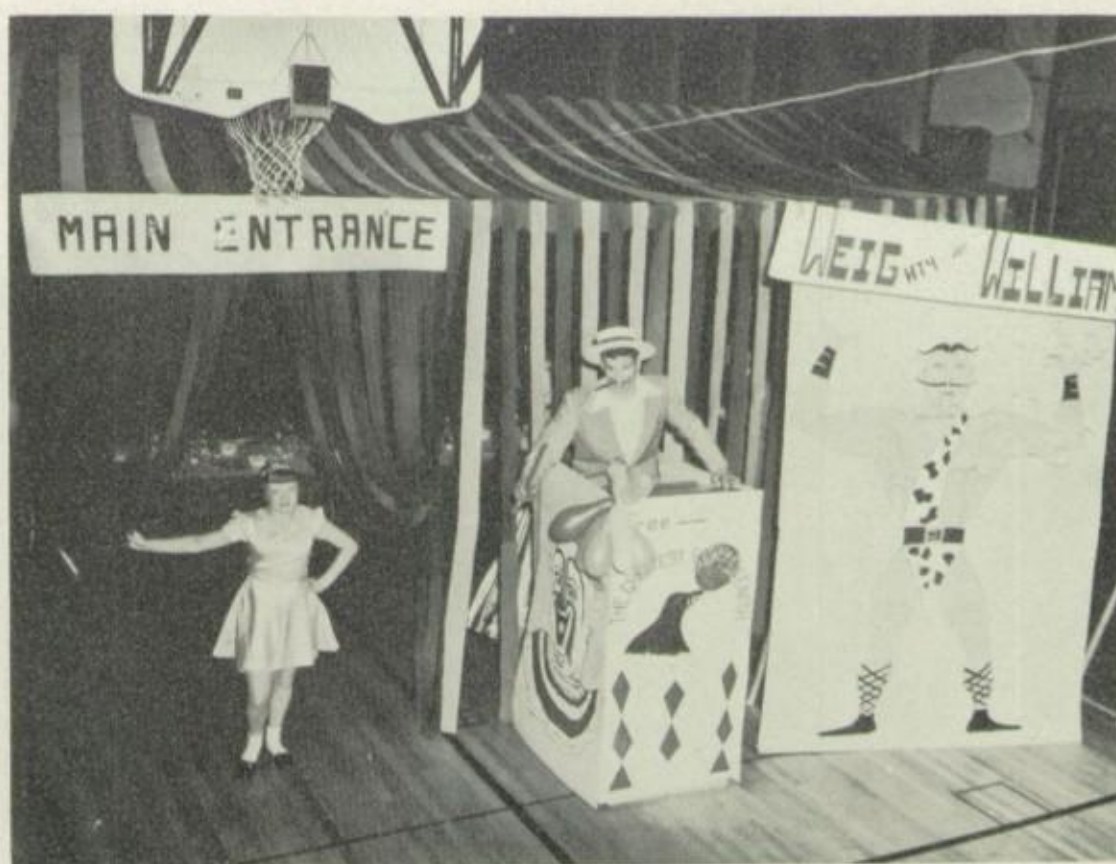

The crew is absorbed in hot cards and cold coke.

Mary and John, Ann and Jerry pose together, but Boyd looks attractive with his choice.

"Circus" Prom Of '50

*"Lady" Buckingham distributes

After changing their theme several hundred times and fighting like Indians, the Juniors were sure they had a successful prom—and everyone else agreed.

Clowns, Jack and Craig, act natural.

Homecoming

1950

QUEEN PAT HIBBS,
Attendants Pauline Glass and Ann Shull.

"Rain, rain, go away" was the chant for Homecoming this year. Although the day was climaxed with beautiful queens, the Seniors having the prize skit (the fourth year in a row), and an enthusiastic parade, Old Man Rain drowned the Victory Angels—but never the spirit of Sac City High School.

Cars, floats, and students parade through town.

The queens are "taken for a ride" at the football game.
